

As a dedicated husband, father, student, mentor, and mortgage lending enthusiast, I wear many hats. Born and raised in the picturesque Willamette Valley, I am proud to call this place home, where I met my wife and am now raising our two young boys. I enjoy reading, gaming, and spending time making memories with my family. Beyond my roles at home, I'm a fervent sports fanatic. Whether it's football, basketball, golf, or any other sport you can think of, I'm always up for a spirited discussion or a friendly game.

My journey began when I graduated in 2005 from Western Oregon University with a BS in Political Science. I did what anyone would do with that degree and decided to pivot immediately, so I dove into the world of lending with a local finance company. Over time, I've gained valuable experience working with banks and credit unions, each stop shaping my expertise in the field. Today, I proudly serve as the Mortgage Sales Manager at Maps Credit Union, where I have been since 2017.

My commitment extends beyond my profession though. I am deeply devoted to both our community and the real estate industry. That's why I'm excited about the opportunity to join the board of directors for the Mid-Valley Association of Realtors. I firmly believe in the importance of cultivating a robust, transparent, and ethical real estate market that benefits both buyers and sellers alike. With my financial background and unwavering dedication to local communities, I am confident in my ability to offer valuable insights and innovative ideas to further our association's mission. Together, we can work towards creating a thriving real estate environment that directly and positively impacts the lives of our residents.
